C. Hall. the year 1860 begins, thank God, prosperously. We are settled in a new house. 1 Notwithstanding my legal losses and expenses I still have money, and am absolutely better off than before. Literature seems to promise more, my last book having been successful. Then the Old Man of the Sea, the lawsuit, is spoken of, and he continues: --In Ireland we still hope to conquer, and possibly the worst is over here. During the past year we have had many opportunities of leading a quieter life, and had manifold and visible blessings, for which God be praised. Amen. On Monday, 9th of January, he went to Macaulay's funeral, but only just records the fact. In this year he joined the St. Georges Rifles, and added drill to his other work, besides some long marches. 1 Southampton Street, Bloomsbury. Under the somewhat cumbersome title of Weldons Register of Facts and Occurrences relating to Literature, the Sciences, and the Arts, the late Mr. Walter Weldon, afterwards distinguished by his great achievement in industrial chemistry (the well-known chlorine process), who was in 1860 a working journalist, started his magazine, which, as he says in his introductory note, was not a mere register,...
