Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Individual in the Making: A Subjective View of Child Development With Suggestions for Parents and Teachers In a recent work, Genetic Psychology, the author has discussed the general principles governing the development of behavior and mind in animals and in the human race, giving special prominence to the objective facts. In this volume it is proposed to discuss the development of individual human minds only, and chiefly from the subjective point of view. This volume is contrasted with the author's earlier book, Fundamentals of Child Study, by its attempt to trace the development of a child's mind as a whole through various stages instead of discussing separately the various stages instead of discussing separately the various instincts and other phases of child-life. In other words the author attempts, figuratively speaking, to drive a twenty-four-horse team abreast, instead of first leading one, then another, over the course. The need that this shall be done is so great that the author attempts it, although he realizes that complete success can scarcely be expected at the present stage of the science. The educator like the mariner needs a chart by which he may guide the child into the most favoring channels and past the most serious dangers that are found in each stage of development from childhood to maturity. The author cannot claim that the correctness of this incomplete chart of human development has been scientifically demonstrated. He can only say, that after a score of years spent in studying children, and much opportunity for observing various methods of teaching, he believes that the descriptions and suggestions herein given lead toward the truth.
